AN EPIC STORY OF A SAILOR'S HEROISM

SCANTILY CLAD BAREFOOTED WALKS MILE IN BLIZZARD

To Secure Help to Rescue Freezing Comrades—Six Coast Guardsmen Caught In a Raging Sea and Covered With Ice, Unable to Land Off Narragansett Pier, Conn.

Swathed in blankets, six coast guardsmen, saved from death by exposure by one of their members after the C-126 was wrecked off Narragansett pier Wednesday night, were carried ashore late Thursday from the cutter Mojave and taken to a hospital for treatment.

The survivors told of their struggles thru a raging sea to shelter and of the brave work of Boatswain's Mate Joseph Libby, who, barefooted and scantily clad, walked a mile thru a blizzard to get help. All six men were suffering from exposure and their feet, hands and ears were frozen.

They were Ensign N. S. Fulford of Greenville, S. C., commander of the 75-foot patrol boat 126; Boatswain's Mate Joseph Libby of Lowell, Massachusetts; Fred W. Thornhill, seaman of New Bedford, Massachusetts; Tony Simon, machinist's mate, of New London; Wilbur A. Minnick, motor machinist's mate, of Scranton, Pennsylvania, and John H. McQueen, ship's cook, of Los Angeles.

Ensign Fulford, propped up in bed at the hospital, with his feet and his right hand badly frozen, told the story of the wrecking of the shaft. Heading up Narragansett Bay in a blinding snowstorm Tuesday morning, with the ship's radio disabled and the compass bad, the craft suddenly crashed upon the rocks.

Libby and McQueen were asleep in the forecabin and Simon was on duty in the engine room. Just before the forward compartment filled with water these three reached the deck.

The six men huddled in the pilot house, unable to get their clothing because the living quarters of the ship were under water. Flares were sent up, but no relief came.

The boat then keeled over on its side, waves washing the windows of the pilot house and driving the men to seek safety on the deck. Their attempts to build a fire were unsuccessful.

Soaking wet, they clung to the deck until noon Thursday. With the shore but 100 feet away, they at last decided to risk the angry surf. Libby made the first attempt, swimming ashore thru a heavy sea. An hour later McQueen, Thornhill and Simon had made the trip. Ensign Fulford was washed off the deck by a mammoth wave, and an hour later Minnick slipped into the water and paddled ashore.

As each man reached shore, he had to climb a rocky cliff. Libby struggled thru snow drifts a mile to a water tower and signalled a gang of men who were clearing a nearby road. The men hurried to the tower and found Libby had collapsed. Three of the guardsmen were strung along the path that led back to the ship and were taken to a house nearby in an exhausted and delirious condition. A fire was started and the men were wrapped in blankets and given hot coffee by neighbors.

BIRTHS

To Mr. and Mrs. Ambrose Stevenson, 363 Logan street, Friday, February 12, 1926, a daughter.

Early Friday the cutter Mojave arrived at Narragansett pier. The men were lifted aboard the cutter in slings from a small boat. Officers of the Mojave said that if road workers had been a half hour later in reaching the men, the guardsmen would have been frozen to death.

Libby, the hero, is suffering from frost bitten feet. Simon's condition was described as the most serious. He is suffering from shock and exposure. The other men are also in a serious condition.

The C-126, which was valued at $75,000, was thought to be a total loss.

NEWS ABOUT COURT HOUSE

General Happenings Taken From the Records of the Various County Offices.

Deplorable Case.

Mrs. Estie Smith Justice, less than sixteen years of age, was brought into the juvenile court by the probate officer, Mrs. Carrie A. Patton and was charged with living in adultery with Ellsworth Tigner and Harley Moore. It seems that when she was hardly fourteen years of age she went to Chillicothe and was married to Arthur Justice, her father, Dave Smith, giving his consent. Judge Adkins is undecided what to do with the girl as she is a minor. She will have a hearing Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Her husband lives on South Clinton street. The girl was taken back to the county jail where she will be held until Saturday or until her trial is called.

SENT TO DAYTON.

Bishop Karshner, of Salt Creek township, a veteran of the World war, was taken to Dayton today to the Soldiers' home where he will be under observation for a short period. Deputy Frank Littleton accompanied him by order of the probate court.

"Nothing can be confined to a purely secular, or a purely 'spiritual' realm. A spirituality which does not concern itself today with war and peace, with social righteousness, with inter racial justice is thereby shown to be a suprious counterfeit. A program which has as its clear objective the bringing of the spirit of Christ into our special and international relationships is a spiritual program, a devotional task, even if it be not labelled so."

PRIZE BAKER MERE MAN IS A CHAMPION

Henry Krohne Won Over a 100 Woman Competitors At Food Show.

Cincinnati, Feb. 12, (UP).—"It's an honor but its tough one to face."

Henry J. Krohne is the man behind this assertion today. Krohne is Cincinnati's pie baker. He won this distinction when judges of the pie baking contest, Ohio Food show, awarded his pie first prize over 100 women's entries.

"I was kidded into entering the contest by my wife," Krohne says, "and now I suppose I'll be kidded by my friends. I never once thought I'd win a prize."

"My husband is not a professional cook," says his wife. "He learned from his mother five years ago and really, if it wasn't for him they'd never be any pies in the house. He's too good for me to compete with."

Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Peck, of Clarksville, were visitors in Columbus today.

HAPPENINGS IN OUR STATE

Taken Direct From Wires By Correspondents of the United States Press Association.

Cleveland, Ohio — "I've killed that squealer, but they're not going to get me."

Shouting these words, David Wells, grocer and confectioner, shot and killed himself last night, shortly after slaying John Blue, a customer, whom he accused of telling dry agents he was making liquor.

When dry officers raided Wells' store last night they found a 30 gallon still and a keg containing whisky. Wells was arrested and released under bond.

Youngstown — Convinced that Dominic and Rusario Russo, cousins, were victims of a bootleggers' feud Trumbull county authorities today attempted to piece together events leading up to the double murder.

The bodies of the two men, bound together and bearing marks of a brutal beating were found in an automobile on a country road near here. Police at first believed both had been hanged as the necks of each were tightly bound with strips of rope.

Cleveland — Braving smoke and flames which swept the plant of the Marble-Shattuck Chair company early Friday, Mrs. H. B. Aldrich entered the building and sounded an alarm that brought fire companies in time to prevent the flames from reaching valuable woods and leather.

Columbus — The bandit who was shot and killed by Ira C. Hunt, grocer Wednesday night, when he attempted to rob Hunt's store, is Jim Christ, alias Jim Charles, alias Jim Fronsno who once served a sentence in Mansfield reformatory, according to Mrs. Nellie Mackwell, former Mansfield resident.

Columbus — The Ohio Tax Association will wage another campaign for passage of the tax classification amendment overwhelmingly defeated at the last election, it was announced today at the conclusion of the association's annual convention here.

Columbus, Feb. 12, (UP).—Invitations are extended today to 400 colleges and universities in all parts of the country and to 300 Ohio high schools to participate here April 17 in the Third Annual Ohio Relays, sponsored by the Ohio State university. G. M. Trautman, member of the meet since its inception, will be in charge.

Forty events will comprise the program for the 1926 relays, which will be compressed into a single day, instead of being spread over two days as heretofore.

Columbus, O., Feb. 12, (UP).—Fifteen makes of motor buses in the new year book of motor vehicles, just issued and all of them are being used in Ohio to meet the demand for motor bus transportation. It is estimated that more than 1500 buses are in operation in the state, outside of the cities. The desire to ride on rubber has led to the establishment of motor bus lines in every county in the state. According to figures just compiled, motor bus operators are paying out more than 12 per cent of their income in taxes, in addition to property taxes and the heavy insurance which they are compelled to carry.

In the year book, 100 makes of private passenger cars are listed, together with five taxicabs and 58 commercial cars and trucks.

LOANS up to $500

Among the many benefits to be derived by using City Loan service is that which enables the borrower to quickly get the money to save his auto, his furniture, his electric appliances, even his home, when he is forced by circumstances to miss his regular payments.

In emergencies of this kind sometimes hundreds of dollars already paid are sacrificed that could easily be saved by a timely visit to our office. The fact is that in most cases of this kind our borrowing friends are agreeably surprised to find that City Loan payments are much less and terms a great deal more considerate than were provided for under their original purchase contract.

THE CITY LOAN & SAVINGS COMPANY

A Home of Traditional Charm

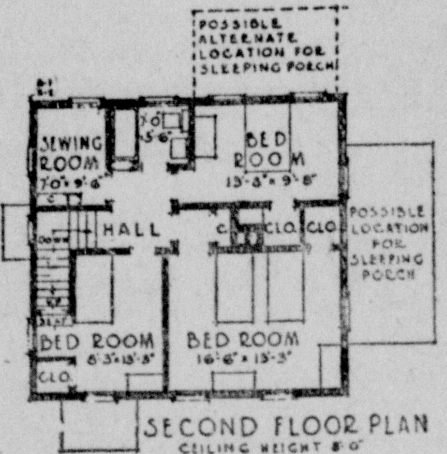

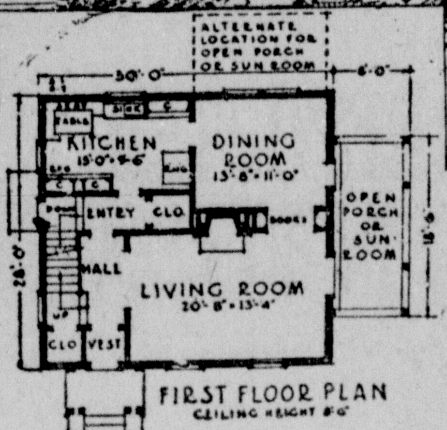

By Wilson Compton
Secretary, National Lumber Manufacturers' Association

COLONIAL houses of this type have been in taste for over two hundred years and have become pleasantly associated with Southern hospitality. They are dignified in structure, appropriate for any section of the country, and, for the space they provide, economical. Best of all, they are homes built to live in, easily adapted to the needs of the modern family.

The interior plan illustrated is a particularly happy one because of the spacious and well-lighted living room. The plan includes six good rooms and sewing room, a full basement and an attic, either of which may be converted into additional rooms by finishing and painting. The open porch may be built either at the side or in back and may be enclosed as a sun-parlor. Its flat, railed roof provides a balcony for the bedrooms. By roofing this, a sleeping porch is formed.

Special space-saving features are the bookshelves which are built in place of partitions between the dining room and living room. These should be painted, outside, to match the woodwork, which should be the same in both rooms and the hall. The interiors of the bookcases may be painted in a bright color which is to be carried out in the furnishings.

One end of the kitchen provides a pleasant and convenient corner for informal meals. The table, with its built-in seats, the adjoining window and the cupboard opposite the table should be treated as a single decorative unit. The nook which they form will appear larger if the built-in furniture is painted to match the walls or woodwork—which should be enameled white, cream, ivory or light gray. The nook will appear gay if trimmed with a brighter color of paint—blue, rose, orange, yellow or pale green. The same color may be used on the window casings. One or two subordinate colors should be introduced in the curtains, china, and other accessories.

When a Colonial house is well surrounded—as it should be—by trees, it is safe to use the traditional color-scheme of white or Colonial yellow for the broad surfaces, woodbine green for roof and shutters, and a grey-green for porch floors.

If less well shaded, a quieter color-scheme might be preferable, since white and green or yellow and green are a bit glaring in the direct sunshine. A soft, dove grey, with porches and window trim painted white, and the roof and shutters done in a restful, subdued shade of green, would be pleasing. Or, a combination of the quieter shades of brown and green might be attractive. It is better, however, to give Colonial architecture the proper setting of foliage, and adhere to one of the distinctively Colonial color-schemes mentioned above.

BALTIMORE'S METHOD OF CIVIC GOVERNMENT

Chicago, Feb. 10.—(U.P.)—Baltimore's method of civic government which includes the counsel and work of the city's active business men today was recommended for use by other cities, by Mayor Howard W. Jackson of the Maryland metropolis. Jackson spoke before a Chicago Association of Commerce luncheon on "business tactics in public affairs."

Instead of calling in efficiency experts, Jackson said he drafted business men to help him.

"I approached the city's most prominent corporations and suggested that each organization supply one man chosen for his knowledge along the lines of efficiency," he said. "That method has justified all the hopes we held for it. Real economies and efficiency have been accomplished along with savings to the tax payers."

WHAT IS TO BE DONE?

"A very difficult question," the President calls the traffic casualties of the time. The figures that he cites—24,000 persons killed in a year upon the streets and highways of the country, and probably more than 500,000 injured. This means that over a period of the same length as our participation in the world war Americans are losing three-fourths as many lives on streets and roads as they lost to German bullets, and running up in addition a non-fatal casualty list thrice as great as they did abroad.

"The president has asked all the governors to appoint delegates to a national safety convention to assemble in March. While we know of no formula to meet the situation he has outlined the conference may write history by focusing public attention on the national aspects of a problem made up of a multitude of incidents at street corners and cross roads. Many communities are at work seeking and applying remedies.

The figures set forth in this article certainly ought to be a very convincing argument for

SUPREME COURT
To Pass Judgment On a Knotty Question.

Columbus, Feb. 10.—(UP.)—The question of whether boards of education have the right to segregate white and colored pupils in different classes and separate buildings, was submitted to the state supreme court today for decision.
The issue was raised in an appeal from the ruling of the Montgomery county court of appeals which ruled that the Dayton board of education must admit colored pupils to the same buildings and classes in which the white scholars are taught.
The appeals court decision was announced in a suit brought by Earl Reese, Dayton negro, who demanded a writ of mandamus to compel the Dayton board to admit his children to classes composed of white pupils.
The fight for a reversal of the appeals court was led by City Solicitor J. C. Harshman of Dayton who denied colored pupils were being discriminated against. They have their own classes, with colored teachers, in three sections of the school in question, he asserted. White pupils are taught by white teachers in other sections, he said.
"All these pupils receive the same instructions," Harshman said. "There is no discrimination. No constitutional rights have been violated. The colored pupils have equal rights and educational advantages. What is being sought in this suit is social equality and not equality of legal rights."

KARSHNER'S FINE AND SENTENCE IS SUSPENDED

"Beach" Karshner, barber aged 43, of Laurelville, charged in Judge Snider's court with contributing to the delinquency of two Madison township school girls, was fined $10 and costs and given 90 days in the Dayton workhouse at his hearing in Juvenile court this afternoon. The fine and jail sentence were suspended by the Judge owing to the fact that Karshner is "mentally deficient."
The defendant served in the Spanish-American War, was shell shocked and had three sun strokes while on the Philippine Islands, leaving his mind in an abnormal condition. Following his return from the service he was committed to the State Hospital at Athens, O., and remained there for some time. For the past twenty years following the time he was released from the hospital he has been under the guardianship of Harvey Lutz, of Whisler, who was appointed in the Pickaway County probate court. F. N. R. Redfern appeared in Juvenile court today as the defendant's legal counsel.
Karshner was alleged to have taken two school girls whose ages were 15 and 17, joy riding on the night of February 4th.—Lancaster Eagle.

HARTMAN THEATER.
The joy of an engagement of mystery will soon be ours, for Thurston, the master magician, will be the attraction at the Hartman theater, Columbus, for the week commencing Monday, February 15, with Wednesday and Saturday matinees.
Thurston has stood alone at the head of his chosen profession for numerous years and is now making his twentieth annual tour with his wonder show of the universe for such it is; because of the fact that the ideas for his wondrous illusions and deceptions are gathered from the remote corners of the world. These ideas have been brought to a state of perfection by the famous magician and will soon be offered for your delectation.
Thurston's new program is the most pretentious of any previously offered and contains thrills, laughter and mystery and will be presented by the largest company ever assembled to support a master magician and numbers thirty-five individuals, many of whom are pretty girls, and with gorgeous scenic array of extravagance and beauty, paraphernalia, animals, etc. that require three sixty-foot baggage cars greatly enhance the many and varied mysteries included in his program, as: "The Great East Indian Rope Trick," "Broadcasting a Woman," "The Phantom," "The Human Cannon Ball," "The Vanishing Horse and Rider," "Crushing a Woman," "The Mystic Follies," "The Vanishing Donkey," "The Human Pin Cushion," "The Elastic Lady," "The Phantom Princess" who floats out over the stage into the orchestra, then vanishing like a cloud in thin air, and one hundred other mysteries.

ABRAHAM LINCOLN.

Born on the twelfth day of February, 1809, in Hardin county, Kentucky, of poor, struggling parents, Abraham Lincoln, the sixteenth president of the United States, has taken his place among the world's immortals and few are the corners of the earth where his birthday is not known and celebrated.

The life history of Lincoln has filled thousands of volumes and its general features are familiar, and should be, with every American citizen and every boy and girl. But the life and work of this great man should receive still greater attention at the hands of those who profess to be particularly interested in Americanizing systems. Unfortunately, the popular "drift" seems to be away from all semblance of honor to our heroic statesmen—and their birthdays may soon come and go as matters of dim and distant fact.

For over fifty years the G. A. R. has kept this anniversary alive with appropriate ceremonies. Today the "Old Guard" has almost disappeared, but we have several other patriotic societies and organizations and it is hoped that the lesson of the day will continue to be properly presented to our new-made citizens.

Lincoln was a man of the common people. He derived most of his goodness and greatness from his mother to whose memory he was devoted. He rose out of the wilderness of the continent like a giant compounded of its elemental rock and soil and time. He put his shoulder under the most stupendous burden this country has ever called upon one of its sons to bear, and the masterful ability and patience and wisdom with which he carried that burden to the summit of a victory which became the altar of his sacrifice, is a story that ages will tell.

He was elected president of the United States on November 6, 1860, and on January 1, 1863, issued his famous proclamation of emancipation, and the thirteenth amendment to the constitution, abolishing slavery in the United States was adopted two years later.

Mr. Lincoln was reelected November 8, 1864. His second inaugural address is the briefest of all our presidential addresses, but it has no equal in lofty eloquence and austere morality.

The infinite tragedy of his life was that after leading the people to the border of the promised land of a restored union, he was not permitted to enter in. On the evening of April 14, 1865, he was assassinated while attending a theater and he peacefully passed away the next day. He was buried amid the mourning of the whole nation, near Springfield, Illinois, where an appropriate monument marks his last resting place.

We live under his shadow today. The touch of his immortal hand is upon us, and we thank God that he gave us this man of faith and prayer and wisdom at a time when the nation was in deepest distress.

First Gas Tip

The first gas pipes were gun barrels, soldered together. The lighted gas flared from the end and one day the gas tip developed by accident.

Murdock wanted to stop the flow of gas and used his wife's thimble. The top of the thimble was full of holes through which the gas escaped. It gave a much whiter, brighter light this way and the old open flame burner thus came into being.

Slants on Life

By J. A. WALDRON

A Superficial Conclusion

THE servants of the Melfords were trained to a silence more submissive than usual, though like other servants they let their tongues wag below stairs. Those of them that had to do with breakfasts especially might have passed with the dumb, for at breakfast Melford was irascible if speech happened to interrupt his analyses of the financial pages. Even Mrs. Melford, who made it a point to come down to breakfast with Melford, was usually a silent partner at that function. This morning, dressed with care, as always, she was so alluring that no man but Melford could have perused financial pages while he might have scanned her. She was ten years younger than her husband.

"Do you remember about the Dells?" she asked.

He was negotiating his coffee, and apparently dissatisfied with its heat. "The Dells? What about them?"

"You promised me you would go to the affair tonight."

"What affair?"

"Why, they entertain. And they have engaged several notable artists to assist."

"Dell has nothing else to do. I have. I'm too busy."

"But you promised me. And you never go out with me nowadays."

"I give you full liberty to amuse yourself, don't I? And plenty of money and all that. I have two or three deals on that take all my time. I'm about the first man downtown in the morning, and you find me at work in the library when you come in at night. I don't even go to my clubs."

"But isn't it your place to go with me once in a while—at least for appearance's sake, even if you find no pleasure in my company?"

"Nonsense! I'm known as a busy man. One of these days, when I've carried through the plans I'm working out, I'll try to be what they call a model husband. Then I'll go with you as much as you like."

"Would you, really? I fear the habits you are forming will never be broken."

"But you're having a good time, anyway. You go to this and that constantly. You have a box at the opera, the theaters are open to you, with dances and what not to fill in during the season. And you play tennis and golf and go about in the summer."

"Yes, I have to do these things for mental relief—and to forget I lack your company."

"Yet you must meet persons—as other women do—who are natural cavaliers—men who have nothing else to do. I like you to enjoy yourself"—he looked up to see a strange expression on her face—"and you must permit me to go my way."

"But people talk when they see me about so much without you."

"People talk about everything that doesn't concern them. Where's young Bloomer? You used to have him to dinner quite often, and he used to squire you about. Why can't he still?"

Mrs. Melford turned white and rose. "I haven't seen him for weeks," she ventured.

"Well, look him up, and please let me attend to my business." And Melford, who had wasted valuable time, hurried out to his motor and was away.

A month afterward Melford entered a Wall street buffet early one afternoon in an abstracted state. He recognized no one. Two brokers who saw him pass in the entry abandoned the subject they had been discussing.

"There goes a man hard hit," said one. "You've noted that his pet stock, Orient Mining, slumped this morning?"

"Almost to zero," said the other. "Have you been caught in any of his misadventures?"

"No. I had a hunch, I guess. No other reason."

"He's surely losing his grip. That's what a woman can do even when she's out of the market."

"Yes. Women are to blame for a lot, even when they seem to be bystanders. Isn't it strange Melford didn't see his wife's game before it was too late?"

"What do you mean?"

"Why, she traveled with that young sport, Bloomer, a long time, afterward pretending, so the women say, that she had broken with him for cause. Pulled the wool over Melford's eyes."

"And then eloped with the fellow. Can you beat it?"

CIRCLEVILLE HIGH SCHOOL LOSER TWICE

Debating Teams Defeated In Discussion Here and At Washington.

All sails were set for Circleville high school to win the debate Thursday evening but they tobogganed, both here and at Washington C. H., losing by five points at each town.

The question for debate was; "Resolved, That the Air Service of the United States Should Constitute a Department of the Government." The affirmative team was upheld by Carl Leist, Scott Eagleson and Gladys Wentworth, Norma Ross as alternates. The negative side was taken by Lancaster. The members of this team were full of pep and presented their side of the argument in a forcible manner.

The members of the negative side of the question who went to Washington were Harry Boyer, Edward Imbler, Katharine Eymann and Bonna Rader as alternates.

The judges praised the work of the Circleville teams in that they presented the best constructive arguments and were better grounded in the facts and it seems were defeated by the superior oratory and delivery of their opponents, and not by the arguments Washington and Lancaster presented. A great deal of credit must be given Miss Lucille Reynolds the coach of the debating teams for the fine quality of the arguments presented.

$50,000,000 Vein of Silver Found in Idaho

Boise, Idaho.—A vein of silver and lead ore, measuring 38 feet in a driven cross-cut, 2,200 feet below the apex, and which conservative estimates of productive value are given at $50,000,000, was found in the Walker H. McGinnis Metals company mine at Clayton, in central Idaho.

The ore tested 50 ounces of silver to the ton and 53 per cent lead, an estimated value of $1,000 a ton. Operation costs of recovering the ore were given by the state mine inspector at $5 a ton, with additional costs of transportation to the nearest present smelter of $17 a ton.

Walker H. McGinnis Metals company is a New York firm in which the General Motors corporation is said to hold a heavy interest. An adjoining property and mine prospect, the Red Bird, upon which proving operations are now being forwarded, is owned by Henry Ford.

YOUTH KILLED SLED HITTED BEHIND AUTO

Father Formerly Resided In This City On Franklin Street.

Robert Lloyd Calvert, 7 son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Calvert, 665 East Fourth avenue, Columbus, died Thursday night in White Cross hospital, two hours after he was struck by an automobile driven by Robert Galbreath, 797 East Fourth avenue at Fourth avenue and Ninth streets.

The youngster, with several other boys, had hitched their sleds on an automobile driven by Perry Hauser, 672 South Fourth avenue, and as Mr. Hauser neared the street intersection, he stopped his auto to warn the boys to unhitch their sleds.

The Calvert lad's sled curved to the middle of the street when Mr. Hauser stopped his car, and swerved into the path of the machine driven by Mr. Galbreath. The boy suffered a fractured skull and a punctured right lung.

The victim is survived besides his parents, by one brother, Harry Ross, and four sisters, Mildred May, Stella Grace, Helen Louise and Marjorie Bell all at home. Burial will be at Mt. Sterling.

The family formerly lived in this city. Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Stout and daughter, Mildred, of this city, went to Columbus today to attend the funeral.

To Dry Out Wet Boots

The quickest and best way to dry out wet hunting boots is to heat a pan of oats or small pebbles. Get them good and warm, not red hot. Pour them into the boots and let them stand for a half hour. At the end of this time all of the moisture will have been taken out and the boots are ready to wear. Don't forget that when the dew is heavy in the morning or slush snow covers the ground.

KELANTAN WAXES FAT ON RUBBER

Steeping Climate of Malay State Swathes Hills in Densest Forests.

Washington.—American automobile owners unknowingly helped to pay the award of nearly $2,000,000, which the Malay state of Kelantan recently gave on court order to an Englishman. Kelantan is waxing financially fat on rubber so the treasury probably found no difficulty in compensating the winner of the case, which, among other things, revealed how English commerce penetrated Kelantan back in the eighties and how the state was incorporated into the British empire in 1909.

Kelantan's present prospects and the improvements effected in its government are related in a bulletin of the National Geographic society from its headquarters in Washington, D. C.

Has Mountains Florida Lacks.

"Think of the Malay peninsula as an elongated Florida tacked on southeast Asia. Singapore shall be Key West; then the southern boundary of Kelantan is approximately in the position of Orlando and the northern boundary is 150 miles above, that is, at Jacksonville, Fla. Kelantan is 60 miles deep, which is a trifle more than half the width of Florida. Since Kelantan lies five degrees from the equator, it would be quite willing to trade mountains for a bit of Florida's latitude.

"Miami had a 14-inch fall of rain recently which seems to put it in the running with Kelantan where over 100 inches fall annually in the plains districts. When the figures are all in Florida's average will be shown only one-third as great. Kelantan's steeping climate swathes its hills in the densest of tropical forests. The jungle is matted above ground and matted below. An American surveyor boring for a bridge pier cut through 100 feet of crushed and rotting leaves and branches to find the bottom obstructed by a rotting trunk of a forest monarch that may have fallen more than a century before.

"Green is a tyrant in Kelantan. A native will cut out a garden plot in the jungle. By dint of industry he can keep the jungle back for two years' crops of tapioca root. Two years' abandonment results in a growth 10 feet high, impenetrable without an ax. Acres of Virginia farms abandoned during the Civil war support 30-foot pine trees, but one can still identify the old corn rows. Ten years after the Kelantan garden patch is surrendered, only the practiced eye can distinguish the spot from natural jungle.

"But not all of Kelantan is jungle. The plain in the northeast, one of the largest level regions in the whole peninsula, affords views where there are no trees to be seen for miles; only rice beds glistening like windows of an enormous hothouse and grass pastures for cattle. Even the disordered jungle is giving way to the ordered rows of rubber trees. Rubber is now the most valuable export of Kelantan. Two other tree products, coconuts and betel nuts, figure heavily in its trade. Betel nuts are a chewing gum substitute of the Orient.

"Kelantan offers a handy example of the East Indies before and after European intervention. Kelantan has been made safer for the ordinary native citizen and his family and a greater share of the profits of the citizen's toil come to him.

"The native conception of municipal government can be understood best by imagining a parallel political system set up in an American corn-belt town. In the first place the mayor would regard the community solely as a source of wealth for himself although he would not live there but instead in Chicago. Neither would he take the responsibility for governing the town or collecting the taxes for himself since he could farm out that work to an exacting foreigner. In Kelantan the foreigner would be a Chinese.

"Anyone in the community who committed a crime would be haled before a court in another city. Since the chief ends of justice, Kelantan style, are to support the judges, half the damages and costs, together with what terrorism, bribery and blackmail could exact, would go to these dignitaries. Once in jail the citizen's chance of getting out would be small indeed.

Friends Must Feed Prisoners.

"It would be necessary to abandon the clean, well-kept jail of our hypothetical Mid-West town to approach the old Kelantan standard. In a vacant lot there would be erected a high, solid-planked palisade. Inside there would be a double row of stout wooden cages about 30 inches from the wall and 6 inches off the ground. If the jail is crowded two persons can be put in one cage. Slats of the cell allow little light and air and there are no sanitary facilities. White men who have entered such compounds in Malay states tell that the stench is overpowering. The jail warden would be permitted by law to feed his prisoners with a half bushel of corn taken from every wagon entering town. None of the prisoners would ever get the corn. Unless relatives and friends fed them, a fee being charged for this by the warden, the prisoners would starve. Indeed, in Kelantan many did starve to death.

Heavy Tax Burden.

"Continuing the parallel, the Mid West citizen's tax bill would have to be greatly augmented. There would be the poll tax to raise a tribute to the capital. The mayor in addition would send a consignment of goods which the townsmen would have to buy whether they wished the goods or not and at an exorbitant price. At command they would have to leave their cornfields to the weeds to cut timber in the wood lots, float it down the river, surrender it to the authorities and receive no compensation. In addition, if the farmer should try to resist tyranny by abandoning his farm he would be fined for that.

"British intervention in Kelantan has wiped away most evils of this medieval system, which was far worse in practice than anything Europe ever knew in the blackest centuries of the Dark ages. Even the native ruler, who is still nominal head of the state, reigns in greater luxury, because he actually gets the taxes he levies although the British adviser has slashed the amount he may levy.

"Kelantan has railroad service with Bangkok and Singapore now. A branch line came in from the north as far as the capital, Kota Bharu. Another finger line stretched toward it from the south. The fingers have joined and Kelantan's prosperity is assured for where the railroad goes in Malay peninsula rubber goes."

COLLECTING

A visitor at a country fair noticed a sad-looking man who persisted in remaining on the merry-go-round.

"Do you like being on there?" asked the visitor.

"No, I don't," was the reply, "but the man who owns this roundabout owes me money, and the only way I can get even is by taking it out in rides."—Tit-Bits.

Danger Somewhere

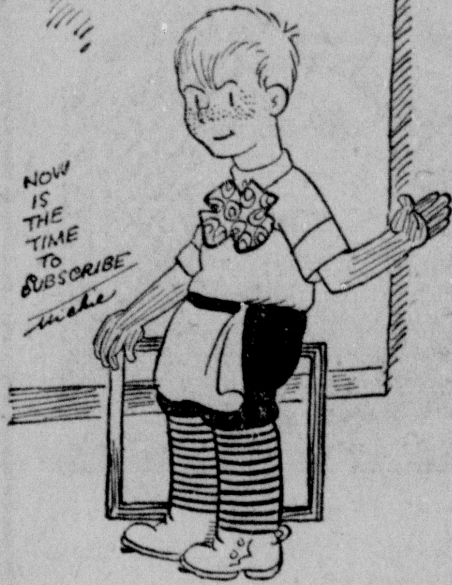

Two men were watching two women pitching their tent at an auto camp in the mountains. "It's dangerous for women to be traveling around alone that way," remarked one, as the women set up their cots and unrolled their bedding. Just then one of the women opened a satchel, pulled out a big revolver, dumped out some cartridges and began cleaning and oiling the weapon. "Yes," said the other man, "it is dangerous. Mighty dangerous."

Wood is one of the strongest substances in the world, but its strength lies in one direction only. A thin strip of wood cut with the grain will withstand about three times as heavy a pull as steel wire of equal weight.

The Vestal Virgins were a group of well-born Roman maidens appointed to watch the sacred flame of the goddess Vesta and see that it never went out. One of them, Tuccia, was falsely accused of a want of chastity, but the goddess Vesta permitted her to carry water in a sieve as a sign of her innocence. Leroux' picture depicts that episode.

FOUR CHILDREN BURNED TO DEATH

Coatesville, Pa., Feb. 10.—(U.P.)—Four children were burned to death when fire caused by an exploding oil lamp, destroyed the home of Benjamin Etters, a farmer, at Goosetown, three miles south of here today.

Two children, William, 11, and Elwood, 4, were saved by Mrs. Etters when she climbed out on a porch roof and jumped to the ground with them in her arms.

The others, Frances, 8, Benjamin Jr., 5, George, 3, and Theodore, 2, were burned to death in their cribs, the flames preventing all efforts of their father and neighbors to rescue them.

Two young actresses were discussing their respective positions in the profession.

CANADIAN BANK TELLER BLAMES

"Wild Women" and Gambling For His Downfall.

Chicago, Feb. 10.—(U.P.)—Blaming an insatiable desire for night life for his predicament, Keith Donovan, paying teller of the Northern Trust Co., today sought the aid of his father, a wealthy Canadian hardware dealer in making restitution of $8,000 he embezzled.

Donovan, according to police, readily admitted the theft of the bank money and blamed gambling resorts and "wild women."

One of the "wild women," Miss Hazel Hall, an employee of the bank of Montreal here, admitted to police that she had accompanied Donovan on several cabaret parties. She denied having received gifts.

In his confession, the erstwhile paying teller said his father owns a large hardware store in Gan-enoque, Canada. He left there some time ago because of his father's desire to have him learn the business.

His embezzling activities, he said, extended over a period of three months and involved funds of infrequent visitors to the bank.

C. & O. ENGINEERS GREETED BY CROWD

The Engineers of The Chesapeake & Ohio Railway Co., when they came to the city Wednesday to submit to the Board of County Commissioners the plans and specifications for the sixteen road crossings in the county and get an expression of the board as to their wishes in the matter of under road or over road crossings, were greeted by a "full-house" of citizens who had evidently been notified by some member of the board to be present, as Burr Rader said, to see that "the Railway Company did not put anything over on the board."

The Engineers said it was not a question of putting anything over on anybody and that the Board was not expected to decide the case at once but would be given ample time to decide the case to their own satisfaction.

The Engineers have nothing to do with the right-of-way and assured The Herald that the road would be built irrespective of the wishes of landowners and others, throughout the territory selected for their right-of-way.

Use for White Stockings

LOVING TRIBUTES PAID TO MEMORY OF PRIEST

Touching resolutions on the death of Rt. Rev. Mgr. James Martin Kirwin continue to bear testimony to the great esteem in which he was held.

Two such resolutions were released yesterday by the board of city commissioners and Galveston Council No. 787, Knights of Columbus.

The Knights of Columbus resolution follows:

"Rt. Rev. Mgr. James Martin Kirwin, son of Patrick and Mary Ryan Kirwin, was born in Circleville, Ohio July 1, 1872.

"He was educated in St. Mary's college, Kentucky; Mount St. Mary's seminary, Cincinnati, Ohio, and Catholic University of America.

"He received holy orders June 19, 1895.

"He was appointed rector of St. Mary's cathedral in August, 1896, and here lived until, on January 24, 1926, wearied with his labors, he passed into that long sleep from which he will awaken nevermore.

"Priest and patriot and philanthropist, teacher and friend and counsellor, saint and scholar and soldier and foremost citizen and, promoter and leader and laborer in all that tended to the greater honor and glory of God and the advancement of mankind—he demonstrated a greater and more varied genius than any other man of his time.

"None to Fill."

"There is none left to fill his place. We shall not look upon his like again.

"His great physical strength enabled him to endure long sustained labor and fatigue.

"He worked incessantly in epidemics and storms and in stress of wars. He never failed to heed a call for help. He gave everything he was to service.

"He lived for God, for country and for fellowman, without ever a thought of himself, his health, comfort or advancement.

"He mingled with knightly courage a sweet gentleness, as of a mother.

"He was a leader in thought and action.

"The circle of his splendid influence was far extended even beyond the borders of this state.

"It is for us, who knew him best, to love him most.

"And we shall follow his spirit with our tears and prayers and may God reward him with eternal glory. And to his beloved family we extend our sincerest sympathy."

Inscribed on Minutes.

The board of county commissioners in session yesterday morning had inscribed on the minutes of the board the following:

"On Sunday, January 24 1926, death took from us Rt. Rev. Monsignor J. M. Kirwin, vicar general of the Galveston diocese, who for more than thirty years in our midst rendered his illustrious services to his church, his state and his fellowmen.

"Thoroughly understanding the great principles upon which our government is founded and believing in them with an unshaken faith and loving them with an unalloyed patriotism, he always with unstinted courage upheld them in both word and deed and sought by his acts and teachings to keep them pure and untarnished in the minds and hearts of the people. Knowing that the great bed rock of all liberties secured to the people of this country is the liberty of religious belief, he ever extended to those of other faiths that respect and consideration which he rightfully demanded that others should give to the followers of his church. A true and mighty priest of the church he served and an ardent patriot of the nation he also served, he clearly saw and by his life work taught that by serving each in its separate sphere are both best served.

"His activities in doing good for country and state and city and mankind were manifold and far too great to attempt to catalogue.

"He served with distinction and courage as the chaplain of a regiment in the Spanish-American war. And when his duties to his church at home prevented his going with the armies to the great war, he worked with tireless zeal to promote and carry on to success the various Liberty loan drives and other measures of our government among the people of this community.

Leader in 1900.

"And when in 1900 this city was swept by dire calamity, he was an outstanding leader and citizen, tireless and able. In his daily walks of life he went about teaching his flock earnestly and ably in their duties both to their church and to their state, guiding the young men in the seminary at La Porte, over which he presided, in the arduous path they had chosen, encouraging, advising and counseling those who sought his help, regardless of race or creed and by his words and acts setting an example of a citizen and a man of the very highest type.

"Ever intolerant of evil, he always fought it courageously and ably. But he loved mankind and knew the weaknesses of men and while he ever condemned without equivocation or compromise the vile deed they did, he was always ready to aid to the right path an evil doer, no matter what his race, creed or station in life might be. A true and faithful priest a loyal, brave and patriotic citizen, a deep lover of his fellowmen, he has left enshrined in the minds and hearts of our people with whom he lived and worked that great heritage, the inspiration for good which the life work of such as he implants in the hearts of humanity.

"Therefore, be it resolved. That this be inscribed upon the minutes as a testimonial of appreciation of this board of the character and life of this great and good citizen and as an expression of our sorrow and sense of our loss and that of the city of Galveston in the death of Monsignor Kirwin."

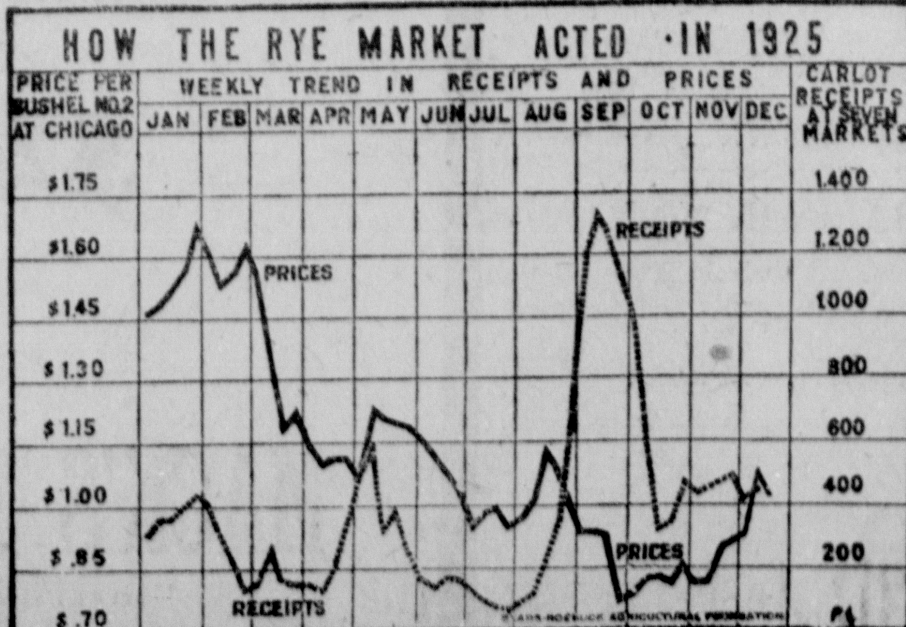

The resolution was drafted by a committee including Mayor Jack T. Pearce and City Attorney Bryan Williams. —Galveston News.

RYE PRICES LOW FOR THE YEAR YIELD DROPS 11,400,000 BUSHEL

The 1925 American rye crop, according to an analysis of conditions by the Sears-Roebuck Agricultural Foundation, produced a low yield. With a total of 52,000,000 bushels in 1925 as compared to 63,400,000 bushels for 1924, and a five-year average of 70,000,000 bushels, prices started off at the beginning of the year at strong levels and then declined, dropping from $1.68 for No. 2 rye early in January, to the low mark of 79 cents in the fourth week in September. There has been a steady decrease in the price level since last January.

The domestic requirements of rye in the United States are variable. Probably one-half of this year's yield could be spared for export purposes. There was a carry-over of more than seven million bushels in the visible supply on July 1st when the harvest of the new crop began. Also, the European crop was reported to be much larger in 1925 than in 1924, Russia claiming to have an extensive surplus for export.

During the last part of the 1925 season, rye declined until it was selling as a feed grain on about the same price level as corn. The recent price rally has developed because of the strength in other grains, particularly wheat, and the development of a small amount of export business.

Splendid Contest, But Result Never In Doubt—Columbus Kinnears Next.

Taking the lead in the first minute of play the C. A. C. boys won over the Rochester Clothiers' at the gym Thursday night. It was one of those games that kept you keyed up every minute yet at no time during the game was there any question of the outcome. The club boys took the lead and kept it and at no time during the contest did the visitors become real dangerous. Just close enough to keep the home boys fighting. It was fast and furious and perhaps slightly rough in spots but this is to be expected in such a game.

Next comes the Columbus Kinnears. The game all the fans have been waiting for. The Kinnears, a team composed of former college stars such as Johnny Miner, Mel Shaw, Bobby Shea, Chick Harley, Pete Stinchcomb and Deacon Lynch is a fast aggregation with a great reputation having lost but one game since the team's organization. IN MEMORY OF HARRISON.

It was in the days that Cincinnati was known as Fort Washington that a slender youth reported to the military authorities of the post, bearing an Ensign's commission from General Washington. That youth was William Henry Harrison, destined to become the ninth president of the United States.

The massacre of St. Clair's army had taken place and the country was filled with apprehension and dismay, but resolved to remedy that deplorable disaster by adequate military reprisal.

Ensign Harrison was with Mad Anthony Wayne in the victorious campaign which followed the defeat of St. Clair, distinguishing himself as an aid to that true chevalier of the pioneer day.

It is fitting that Cincinnati is to celebrate the anniversary of one so intimately identified with the early development of the community and the great territory from which the original tribal possessors finally were driven by the irresistible onrush of the white conqueror. The city honors itself in honoring the memory of General Harrison.

William Henry Harrison must remain for long a commanding figure in historical estimation. As soldier, legislator, administrator, governor, citizen, he measured up to best national traditions and ideals of public service.

As Indian Commissioner Governor Harrison secured title to more than 70,000,000 acres of land, now the terrain of a surpassing progress that scarcely would have been dreamed of in the day when the warwhoop resounded thru the Ohio and Wabash Valleys and the Red Man lorded the northwestern frontiers.

It was in 1811 that General Harrison finally broke the Indian power in the middle west and immediate northwest, when he became "Old Tippecanoe," by his victory over one among the ablest Indian chieftains known to American history.

Again, at the battle near the river Thomas, Harrison wrought confusion and defeat to the British and their Indian allies by winning a decisive conflict. He became a national hero. He was elected to congress, became a United States senator, an ambassador and, finally, was called by the people to preside over the country as its chief magistrate. Fate granted him an incumbency as president that was tragically brief—one month. But the muse of history had crowned him with immortal bays.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

PUBLIC SALE GOOD PRICES ARE REALIZED

Albert E. Hudnell, who has tenanted the Littleton farm in Walnut township for the past few years, held a public sale of his farm chattels, including all household effects Thursday. The attendance was possibly the biggest of any sale held in this community for years; the crowd being conservatively estimated at 1500 people. The premises were parked with automobiles and a line on either side of the highway for at least one-half mile.

Prices were much better than the average sale of the season; some of the maximum prices being as follows: Horses $176; milk cows $201; second highest priced cow $176; oats 41 cents per bushel; farming implements and machinery all selling at fair prices and most household goods, canned fruit, etc., selling at excellent figures sale totaling nearly $4850.

C. G. Chalfin auctioneer and J. D. Hummel and A. J. Dunkel clerked.

The ladies of the Evangelical church served lunch, but the crowd was so large that not nearly all could be fed.

Mr. Hudnell will vacate the farm in a few days at which time Arthur Stevens, who has been a tenant on the J. M. Morris farm will succeed Mr. Hudnell on the Littleton farm.

AN EPIC STORY OF A SAILOR'S HEROISM

SCANTILY CLAD BAREFOOTED WALKS MILE IN BLIZZARD

To Secure Help to Rescue Freezing Comrades—Six Coast Guardsmen Caught In a Raging Sea and Covered With Ice, Unable to Land Off Narragansett Pier, Conn.

Early Friday the cutter Mojave arrived at Narragansett pier. The men were lifted aboard the cutter in slings from a small boat. Officers of the Mojave said that if road workers had been a half hour later in reaching the men, the guardsmen would have been frozen to death.

Libby, the hero, is suffering from frost bitten feet. Simon's condition was described as the most serious. He is suffering from shock and exposure. The other men are also in a serious condition.

The C-126, which was valued at $75,000, was thought to be a total loss.

Swathed in blankets, six coast guardsmen, saved from death by exposure by one of their members after the C-126 was wrecked off Narragansett pier Wednesday night, were carried ashore late Thursday from the cutter Mojave and taken to a hospital for treatment.

The survivors told of their struggles thru a raging sea to shelter and of the brave work of Boatswain's Mate Joseph Libby, who, barefooted and scantily clad, walked a mile thru a blizzard to get help. All six men were suffering from exposure and their feet, hands and ears were frozen.

They were Ensign N. S. Fulford of Greenville, S. C., commander of the 75-foot patrol boat 126; Boatswain's Mate Joseph Libby of Lowell, Massachusetts; Fred W. Thornhill, seaman of New Bedford, Massachusetts; Tony Simon, machinist's mate, of New London; Wilbur A. Minnick, motor machinist's mate, of Scranton, Pennsylvania; and John H. McQueen, ship's cook, of Los Angeles.

Ensign Fulford, propped up in bed at the hospital, with his feet and his right hand badly frozen, told the story of the wrecking of the shaft. Heading up Narragansett Bay in a blinding snowstorm Tuesday morning, with the ship's radio disabled and the compass bad, the craft suddenly crashed upon the rocks.

Libby and McQueen were asleep in the forecabin and Simon was on duty in the engine room. Just before the forward compartment filled with water these three reached the deck.

The six men huddled in the pilot house, unable to get their clothing because the living quarters of the ship were under water. Flares were sent up, but no relief came.

The boat then keeled over on its side, waves washing the windows of the pilot house and driving the men to seek safety on the deck. Their attempts to build a fire were unsuccessful.

Soaking wet, they clung to the deck until noon Thursday. With the shore but 100 feet away, they at last decided to risk the angry surf. Libby made the first attempt, swimming ashore thru a heavy sea. An hour later McQueen, Thornhill and Simon had made the trip. Ensign Fulford was washed off the deck by a mammoth wave, and an hour later Minnick slipped into the water and paddled ashore.

As each man reached shore, he had to climb a rocky cliff. Libby struggled thru snow drifts a mile to a water tower and signalled a gang of men who were clearing a nearby road. The men hurried to the tower and found Libby had collapsed. Three of the guardsmen were strung along the path that led back to the ship and were taken to a house nearby in an exhausted and delirious condition. A fire was started and the men were wrapped in blankets and given hot coffee by neighbors.

General Happenings Taken From the Records of the Various County Offices.

Deplorable Case.

Mrs. Estie Smith Justice, less than sixteen years of age, was brought into the juvenile court by the probate officer, Mrs. Carrie A. Patton and was charged with living in adultery with Ellsworth Tigner and Harley Moore. It seems that when she was hardly fourteen years of age she went to Chillicothe and was married to Arthur Justice, her father, Dave Smith, giving his consent. Judge Adkins is undecided what to do with the girl as she is a minor. She will have a hearing Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Her husband lives on South Clinton street. The girl was taken back to the county jail where she will be held until Saturday or until her trial is called.

PRIZE BAKER MERE MAN IS A CHAMPION

Henry Krohne Won Over a 100 Woman Competitors At Food Show.

Cincinnati, Feb. 12, (UP).—"It's an honor but its tough one to face."

Henry J. Krohne is the man behind this assertion today. Krohne is Cincinnati's pie baker. He won this distinction when judges of the pie baking contest, Ohio Food show, awarded his pie first prize over 100 women's entries.

"I was kidded into entering the contest by my wife," Krohne says, "and now I suppose I'll be kidded by my friends. I never once thought I'd win a prize."

"My husband is not a professional cook," says his wife. "He learned from his mother five years ago and really, if it wasn't for him they'd never be any pies in the house. He's too good for me to compete with."

Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Peck, of Clarksville, were visitors in Columbus today.

HAPPENINGS IN OUR STATE

Taken Direct From Wires By Correspondents of the United States Press Association.

Cleveland, Ohio — "I've killed that squealer, but they're not going to get me."

Shouting these words, David Wells, grocer and confectioner, shot and killed himself last night, shortly after slaying John Blue, a customer, whom he accused of telling dry agents he was making liquor.

When dry officers raided Wells' store last night they found a 30 gallon still and a keg containing whisky. Wells was arrested and released under bond.

Youngstown — Convinced that Dominic and Rusario Russo, cousins, were victims of a bootleggers' feud Trumbull county authorities today attempted to piece together events leading up to the double murder.

The bodies of the two men, bound together and bearing marks of a brutal beating were found in an automobile on a country road near here. Police at first believed both had been hanged as the necks of each were tightly bound with strips of rope.

Cleveland — Braving smoke and flames which swept the plant of the Marble-Shattuck Chair company early Friday, Mrs. H. B. Aldrich entered the building and sounded an alarm that brought fire companies in time to prevent the flames from reaching valuable woods and leather.

Columbus — The bandit who was shot and killed by Ira C. Hunt, grocer Wednesday night, when he attempted to rob Hunt's store, is Jim Christ, alias Jim Charles, alias Jim Fronsno who once served a sentence in Mansfield reformatory, according to Mrs. Nellie Mackwell, former Mansfield resident.

Columbus — The Ohio Tax Association will wage another campaign for passage of the tax classification amendment overwhelmingly defeated at the last election, it was announced today at the conclusion of the association's annual convention here.

Columbus, Feb. 12, (UP).—Invitations are extended today to 400 colleges and universities in all parts of the country and to 300 Ohio high schools to participate here April 17 in the Third Annual Ohio Relays, sponsored by the Ohio State university. G. M. Trautman, member of the meet since its inception, will be in charge.

Forty events will comprise the program for the 1926 relays, which will be compressed into a single day, instead of being spread over two days as heretofore.

Columbus, O., Feb. 12, (UP).—Fifteen makes of motor buses in the new year book of motor vehicles, just issued and all of them are being used in Ohio to meet the demand for motor bus transportation. It is estimated that more than 1500 buses are in operation in the state, outside of the cities. The desire to ride on rubber has led to the establishment of motor bus lines in every county in the state. According to figures just compiled, motor bus operators are paying out more than 12 per cent of their income in taxes, in addition to property taxes and the heavy insurance which they are compelled to carry.

In the year book, 100 makes of private passenger cars are listed, together with five taxicabs and 58 commercial cars and trucks.

that which enables the borrower his regular payments.

In emergencies of this kind some-

COMPANY

Secretary, National Lumber
Manufacturers' Association

COLONIAL houses of this type have been in taste for over two hundred years and have become pleasantly associated with Southern hospitality. They are dignified in structure, appropriate for any section of the country, and, for the space they provide, economical. Best of all, they are homes built to live in, easily adapted to the needs of the modern family.

The interior plan illustrated is a particularly happy one because of the spacious and well-lighted living room. The plan includes six good rooms and sewing room, a full basement and an attic, either of which may be converted into additional rooms by finishing and painting. The open porch may be built either at the side or in back and may be enclosed as a sun-parlor. Its flat, railed roof provides a balcony for the bedrooms.
By roofing this, a sleeping porch is formed.

Special space-saving features are the bookshelves which are built in place of partitions between the dining room and living room. These should be painted, outside, to match the woodwork, which, should be the same in both rooms and the hall. The interiors of the bookcases may be painted in a bright color which is to be carried out in the furnishings.

One end of the kitchen provides a pleasant and convenient corner for informal meals. The table, with its built-in seats, the adjoining window and the cupboard opposite the table should be treated as a single decorative unit. The nook which they form will appear larger if the built-in furniture is painted to match the walls or woodwork—which should be enamelled white, cream, ivory or light gray. The nook will appear gayer if trimmed with a brighter color of paint,—blue, rose, orange, yellow or pale green. The same color may be used on the window casings. One or two subordinate colors should be introduced in the curtains, china, and other accessories.

When a Colonial house is well surrounded—as it should be—by trees, it is safe to use the traditional color-scheme of white or Colonial yellow for the broad surfaces, woodbine green for the roof and shutters, and a grey-green for porch floors.

If less well shaded, a quieter color-scheme might be preferable, since white-and-green or yellow-and-green are a bit glaring in the direct sunshine. A soft, dove grey, with porches and window trim painted white, and the roof and shutters done in a restful, subdued shade of green, would be pleasing. Or, a combination of the quieter shades of brown and green might be attractive. It is better, however, to give Colonial architecture the proper setting of foliage, and adhere to one of the distinctively Colonial color-schemes mentioned above.

Instead of calling in efficiency experts, Jackson said he drafted business men to help him.

"I approached the city's most prominent corporations and suggested that each organization supply one man chosen for his knowledge along the lines of efficiency," he said. "That method has justified all the hopes we held for it. Real economies and efficiency have been accomplished along with savings to the tax payers."

WHAT IS TO BE DONE?
"A very difficult question," the President calls the traffic casualties of the time. The figures that he cites—24,000 persons killed in a year upon the streets and highways of the country, and probably more than 500,000 injured. This means that over a period of the same length as our participation in the world war Americans are losing three-fourths as many lives on streets and roads as they lost to German bullets, and running up in addition a non-fatal casualty list thrice as great as they did abroad.

tional aspects of a problem made up

SUPREME COURT

To Pass Judgment On a Knotty Question.

Columbus, Feb. 10.—(UP.)—

The question of whether boards of education have the right to segregate white and colored pupils in different classes and separate buildings, was submitted to the state supreme court today for decision.

The issue was raised in an appeal from the ruling of the Montgomery county court of appeals which ruled that the Dayton board of education must admit colored pupils to the same buildings and classes in which the white scholars are taught.

The appeals court decision was announced in a suit brought by Earl Reese, Dayton negro, who demanded a writ of mandamus to compel the Dayton board to admit his children to classes composed of white pupils.

The fight for a reversal of the appeals court was led by City Solicitor J. C. Harshman of Dayton who denied colored pupils were being discriminated against. They have their own classes, with colored teachers, in three sections of the school in question, he asserted. White pupils are taught by white teachers in other sections, he said.

"All these pupils receive the same instructions," Harshman said. "There is no discrimination. No constitutional rights have been violated. The colored pupils have equal rights and educational advantages. What is being sought in this suit is social equality and not equality of legal rights."

KARSHNER'S FINE AND SENTENCE IS SUSPENDED

"Beach" Karshner, barber aged 43, of Laurelville, charged in Judge Snider's court with contributing to the delinquency of two Madison township school girls, was fined $10 and costs and given 90 days in the Dayton workhouse at his hearing in Juvenile court this afternoon. The fine and jail sentence were suspended by the Judge owing to the fact that Karshner is "mentally deficient."

The defendant served in the Spanish-American War, was shell shocked and had three sun strokes while on the Philippine Islands, leaving his mind in an abnormal condition. Following his return from the service he was committed to the State Hospital at Athens, O., and remained there for some time. For the past twenty years following the time he was released from the hospital he has been under the guardianship of Harvey Lutz, of Whisler, who was appointed in the Pickaway County probate court. F. N. R. Redfern appeared in Juvenile court today as the defendant's legal counsel.

Karshner was alleged to have taken two school girls whose ages were 15 and 17, joy riding on the night of February 4th.—Lancaster Eagle.

FISHERMAN DROWNED

Glouster, Mass., Feb. 10.—(UP.)—At least one man is believed to have been drowned and several others barely escaped a similar fate early today when, in a seventy mile gale the fishing schooner Ralph Brown was driven ashore on Long Beach.

Survivors reported that John Fragata, a member of the crew had been drowned when swept overboard by a giant wave. Of the 21 members of the crew, 19 reached safety, leaving two men on the boat.

The schooner was reported a total loss.

x HARTMAN THEATER. x x x x x x x x x

The joy of an engagement of mystery will soon be ours, for Thurston, the master magician, will be the attraction at the Hartman theater, Columbus, for the week commencing Monday, February 15, with Wednesday and Saturday matinees.

Many a tired business man or a busy mother will be routed out of their easy chairs and sent wandering off to the theater surrounded by a brood of youngsters determined to bring home either a pigeon or a rabbit as a present from Thurston, who is conceded to be the greatest exponent of the art of necromancy and the most plausible and delightful trickster of the entertainment world today.

Thurston has stood alone at the head of his chosen profession for numerous years and is now making his twentieth annual tour with his wonder show of the universe for such it is; because of the fact that the ideas for his wondrous illusions and deceptions are gathered from the remote corners of the world. These ideas have been brought to a state of perfection by the famous magician and will soon be offered for your delectation.

Thurston's new program is the most pretentious of any previously offered and contains thrills, laughter and mystery and will be presented by the largest company ever assembled to support a master magician and numbers thirty-five individuals, many of whom are pretty girls, and with gorgeous scenic array of extravagance and beauty, paraphernalia, animals, etc. that require three sixty-foot baggage cars greatly enhance the many and varied mysteries included in his program, as: "The Great East Indian Rope Trick," "Broadcasting a Woman," "The Phantom," "The Human Cannon Ball," "The Vanishing Horse and Rider," "Crushing a Woman," "The Mystic Follies," "The Vanishing Donkey," "The Human Pin Cushion," "The Elastic Lady," "The Phantom Princess" who floats out over the stage into the orchestra, then vanishing like a cloud in thin air, and one hundred other mysteries.

ABRAHAM LINCOLN.

Born on the twelfth day of February, 1809, in Hardin county, Kentucky, of poor, struggling parents, Abraham Lincoln, the sixteenth president of the United States, has taken his place among the world's immortals and few are the corners of the earth where his birthday is not known and celebrated.

The life history of Lincoln has filled thousands of volumes and its general features are familiar, one should be, with every American citizen and every boy and girl. But the life and work of this great man should receive still greater attention at the hands of those who profess to be particularly interested in Americanizing systems. Unfortunately, the popular "drift seems to be away from all semblance of honor to our heroic statesmen—and their birthdays may soon come and go as matters of dim and distant fact.

For over fifty years the G. A. R. has kept this anniversary alive with appropriate ceremonies. Today the "Old Guard" has almost disappeared, but we have several other patriotic societies and organizations and it is hoped that the lesson of the day will continue to be properly presented to our new-made citizens.

Lincoln was a man of the common people. He derived most of his goodness and greatness from his mother to whose memory he was devoted. He rose out of the wilderness of the continent like a giant compounded of its elemental rock and soil and time. He put his shoulder under the most stupendous burden this country has ever called upon one of its sons to bear, and the masterful ability and patience and wisdom with which he carried that burden to the summit of a victory which became the altar of his sacrifice, is a story that ages will tell.

He was elected president of the United States on November 6, 1860, and on January 1, 1863, issued his famous proclamation of emancipation, and the thirteenth amendment to the constitution, abolishing slavery in the United States was adopted two years later.

Mr. Lincoln was reelected November 8, 1864. His second inaugural address is the briefest of all our presidential addresses, but it has no equal in lofty eloquence and austere morality.

The infinite tragedy of his life was that after leading the people to the border of the promised land of a restored union, he was not permitted to enter in. On the evening of April 14, 1865, he was assassinated while attending a theater and he peacefully passed away the next day. He was buried amid the mourning of the whole nation, near Springfield, Illinois, where an appropriate monument marks his last resting place.

We live under his shadow today. The touch of his immortal hand is upon us, and we thank God that he gave us this man of faith and prayer and wisdom at a time when the nation was in deepest distress.

First Gas Tip

The first gas pipes were gun barrels, soldered together. The lighted gas flared from the end and one day the gas tip developed by accident.

Murdock wanted to stop the flow of gas and used his wife's thimble. The top of the thimble was full of holes through which the gas escaped. It gave a much whiter, brighter light this way and the old open flame burner thus came into being.

Slants on Life

By J. A. WALDRON

A Superficial Conclusion

THE servants of the Melfords were trained to a silence more submissive than usual, though like other servants they let their tongues wag below stairs. Those of them that had to do with breakfasts especially might have passed with the dumb, for at breakfast Melford was irascible if speech happened to interrupt his analyses of the financial pages. Even Mrs. Melford, who made it a point to come down to breakfast with Melford, was usually a silent partner at that function. This morning, dressed with care, as always, she was so alluring that no man but Melford could have perused financial pages while he might have scanned her. She was ten years younger than her husband.

"Do you remember about the Dells?" she asked.

He was negotiating his coffee, and apparently dissatisfied with its heat.

"The Dells? What about them?"

"You promised me you would go to the affair tonight."

"What affair?"

"Why, they entertain. And they have engaged several notable artists to assist."

"Dell has nothing else to do. I have. I'm too busy."

"But you promised me. And you never go out with me nowadays."

"I give you full liberty to amuse yourself, don't I? And plenty of money and all that. I have two or three deals on that take all my time. I'm about the first man downtown in the morning, and you find me at work in the library when you come in at night. I don't even go to my clubs."

"But isn't it your place to go with me once in a while—at least for appearance' sake, even if you find no pleasure in my company?"

"Nonsense! I'm known as a busy man. One of these days, when I've carried through the plans I'm working out, I'll try to be what they call 'a model husband.' Then I'll go with you as much as you like."

"Would you, really? I fear the habits you are forming will never be broken."

"But you're having a good time, anyway. You go to this and that constantly. You have a box at the opera, the theaters are open to you, with dances and what not to fill in during the season. And you play tennis and golf and go about in the summer."

"Yes, I have to do these things for mental relief—and to forget I lack your company."

"Yet you must meet persons—as other women do—who are natural cavaliers—men who have nothing else to do. I like you to enjoy yourself—he looked up to see a strange expression on her face—"and you must permit me to go my way."

"But people talk when they see me about so much without you."

"People talk about everything that doesn't concern them. Where's young Bloomer? You used to have him to dinner quite often, and he used to squire you about. Why can't he still?"

Mrs. Melford turned white and rose. "I haven't seen him for weeks," she ventured.

"Well, look him up, and please let me attend to my business." And Melford, who had wasted valuable time, hurried out to his motor and was away.

A month afterward Melford entered a Wall street buffet early one afternoon in an abstracted state. He recognized no one. Two brokers who saw him pass in the entry abandoned the subject they had been discussing.

"There goes a man hard hit," said one. "You've noted that his pet stock, Orient Mining, slumped this morning?"

"Almost to zero," said the other.

"Have you been caught in any of his misadventures?"

"No. I had a hunch, I guess. No other reason."

"He's surely losing his grip. That's what a woman can do even when she's out of the market."

"Yes. Women are to blame for a lot, even when they seem to be bystanders. Isn't it strange Melford didn't see his wife's game before it was too late?"

"What do you mean?"

"Why, she traveled with that young sport, Bloomer, a long time, afterward pretending, so the women say, that she had broken with him for cause. Pulled the wool over Melford's eyes."

"And then eloped with the fellow. Can you beat it?"

CIRCLEVILLE HIGH SCHOOL LOSER TWICEDebating Teams Defeated In Discussion Here and At Washington.

All sails were set for Circleville high school to win the debate Thursday evening but they tobogganed, both here and at Washington C. H., losing by five points at each town.

The question for debate was; "Resolved, That the Air Service of the United States Should Constitute a Department of the Government." The affirmative team was upheld by Carl Leist, Scott Eagleson and Gladys Wentworth, Norma Ross as alternate.

The negative side was taken by Lancaster. The members of this team were full of pep and presented their side of the argument in a forcible manner.

The members of the negative side of the question who went to Washington were Harry Boyer, Edward Imbler, Katharine Eymann and Bonna Rader as alternate.

The judges praised the work of the Circleville teams in that they presented the best constructive arguments and were better grounded in the facts and it seems were defeated by the superior oratory and delivery of their opponents, and not by the arguments Washington and Lancaster presented. A great deal of credit must be given Miss Lucille Reynolds the coach of the debating teams for the fine quality of the arguments presented.

$50,000,000 Vein of Silver Found in Idaho

Boise, Idaho.—A vein of silver and lead ore, measuring 38 feet in a driven cross-cut, 2,200 feet below the apex, and which conservative estimates of productive value are given at $50,000,000, was found in the Walker H. McGinnis Metals company mine at Clayton, in central Idaho.

The ore tested 50 ounces of silver to the ton and 53 per cent lead, an estimated value of $1,000 a ton. Operation costs of recovering the ore were given by the state mine inspector at $5 a ton, with additional costs of transportation to the nearest present smelter of $17 a ton.

Walker H. McGinnis Metals company is a New York firm in which the General Motors corporation is said to hold a heavy interest. An adjoining property and mine prospect, the Red Bird, upon which proving operations are now being forwarded, is owned by Henry Ford.

YOUTH KILLED SLED HITCHED BEHIND AUTOFather Formerly Resided In This City On Franklin Street.

Robert Lloyd Calvert, 7 son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Calvert, 665 East Fourth avenue, Columbus, died Thursday night in White Cross hospital, two hours after he was struck by an automobile driven by Robert Galbreath, 797 East Fourth avenue at Fourth avenue and Ninth streets.

The youngster, with several other boys, had hitched their sleds on an automobile driven by Perry Hauser, 672 South Fourth avenue, and as Mr. Hauser neared the street intersection, he stopped his auto to warn the boys to unhitch their sleds.

The Calvert lad's sled curved to the middle of the street when Mr. Hauser stopped his car, and swerved into the path of the machine driven by Mr. Galbreath. The boy suffered a fractured skull and a punctured right lung.

The victim is survived besides his parents, by one brother, Harry Ross and four sisters, Mildred May, Stella Grace, Helen Louise and Marjorie Bell all at home. Burial will be at Mt. Sterling.

The family formerly lived in this city. Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Stout and daughter, Mildred, of this city, went to Columbus today to attend the funeral.

To Dry Out Wet Boots

The quickest and best way to dry out wet hunting boots is to heat a pan of oats or small pebbles. Get them good and warm, not red hot. Pour them into the boots and let them stand for a half hour. At the end of this time all of the moisture will have been taken out and the boots are ready to wear. Don't forget that when the dew is heavy in the morning or slush snow covers the ground.

KELANTAN WAXES FAT ON RUBBER

Steeping Climate of Malay State Swathes Hills in Densest Forests.

Washington.—American automobile owners unknowingly helped to pay the award of nearly $2,000,000, which the Malay state of Kelantan recently gave on court order to an Englishman. Kelantan is waxing financially fat on rubber so the treasury probably found no difficulty in compensating the winner of the case, which, among other things, revealed how English commerce penetrated Kelantan back in the eighties and how the state was incorporated into the British empire in 1903.

Kelantan's present prospects and the improvements effected in its government are related in a bulletin of the National Geographic society from its headquarters in Washington, D. C.

Has Mountains Florida Lacks.

"Think of the Malay peninsula as an elongated Florida tacked on southeast Asia. Singapore shall be Key West; then the southern boundary of Kelantan is approximately in the position of Orlando and the northern boundary is 150 miles above, that is, at Jacksonville, Fla. Kelantan is 60 miles deep, which is a trifle more than half the width of Florida. Since Kelantan lies five degrees from the equator, it would be quite willing to trade mountains for a bit of Florida's latitude.

"Miami had a 14-inch fall of rain recently which seems to put it in the running with Kelantan where over 100 inches fall annually in the plains districts. When the figures are all in Florida's average will be shown only one-third as great. Kelantan's steeping climate swathes its hills in the densest of tropical forests. The jungle is matted above ground and matted below. An American surveyor boring for a bridge pier cut through 100 feet of crushed and rotting leaves and branches to find the bottom obstructed by a rotting trunk of a forest monarch that may have fallen more than a century before.

"Green is a tyrant in Kelantan. A native will cut out a garden plot in the jungle. By dint of industry he can keep the jungle back for two years' crops of tapioca root. Two years' abandonment results in a growth 10 feet high, impenetrable without an ax. Acres of Virginia farms abandoned during the Civil war support 30-foot pine trees, but one can still identify the old corn rows. Ten years after the Kelantan garden patch is surrendered, only the practiced eye can distinguish the spot from natural jungle.

"But not all of Kelantan is jungle. The plain in the northeast, one of the largest level regions in the whole peninsula, affords views where there are no trees to be seen for miles; only rice beds glistening like windows of an enormous boathouse and grass pastures for cattle. Even the disordered jungle is giving way to the ordered rows of rubber trees. Rubber is now the most valuable export of Kelantan. Two other tree products, coconuts and betel nuts, figure heavily in its trade. Betel nuts are a chewing gum substitute of the Orient.

"Kelantan offers a handy example of the East Indies before and after European intervention. Kelantan has been made safer for the ordinary native citizen and his family and a greater share of the profits of the citizen's toil come to him.

"The native conception of municipal government can be understood best by imagining a parallel political system set up in an American corn-belt town. In the first place the mayor would regard the community solely as a source of wealth for himself although he would not live there but instead in Chicago. Neither would he take the responsibility for governing the town or collecting the taxes for himself since he could farm out that work to an exacting foreigner. In Kelantan the foreigner would be a Chinese.

"Anyone in the community who committed a crime would be haled before a court in another city. Since the chief ends of justice, Kelantan style, are to support the judges, half the damages and costs, together with what terrorism, bribery and blackmail could exact, would go to these dignitaries. Once in jail the citizen's chance of getting out would be small indeed.

Friends Must Feed Prisoners.

"It would be necessary to abandon the clean, well-kept jail of our hypothetical Mid-West town to approach the old Kelantan standard. In a vacant lot there would be erected a high, solid-planked palisade. Inside there would be a double row of stout wooden cages about 30 inches from the wall and 6 inches off the ground. If the jail is crowded two persons can be put in one cage. Slats of the cell allow little light and air and there are no sanitary facilities. White men who have entered such compounds in Malay states tell that the stench is overpowering. The jail warden would be permitted by law to feed his prisoners with a half bushel of corn taken from every wagon entering town. None of the prisoners would ever get the corn. Unless relatives and friends fed them, a fee being charged for this by the warden, the prisoners would starve. Indeed, in Kelantan many did starve to death.

Heavy Tax Burden.

"Continuing the parallel, the Mid West citizen's tax bill would have to be greatly augmented. There would be the poll tax to raise a tribute to the capital. The mayor in addition would send a consignment of goods which the townsmen would have to buy whether they wished the goods or not and at an exorbitant price. At command they would have to leave their cornfields to the weeds to cut timber in the wood lots, float it down the river, surrender it to the authorities and receive no compensation. In addition, if the farmer should try to resist tyranny by abandoning his farm he would be fined for that.

"Kelantan has railroad service with Bangkok and Singapore now. A branch line came in from the north as far as the capital, Kota Bharu. Another finger line stretched toward it from the south. The fingers have joined and Kelantan's prosperity is assured for where the railroad goes in Malay peninsula rubber goes."

COLLECTING

A visitor at a country fair noticed a sad-looking man who persisted in remaining on the merry-go-round.

"Do you like being on there?" asked the visitor.

"No, I don't," was the reply, "but the man who owns this roundabout owes me money, and the only way I can get even is by taking it out in rides."—Tit-Bits.

Danger Somewhere

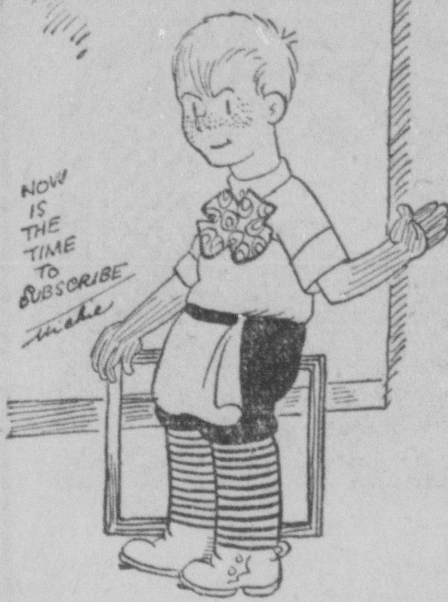

Two men were watching two women pitching their tent at an auto camp in the mountains. "It's dangerous for women to be travelling around alone that way," remarked one, as the women set up their cots and unrolled their bedding. Just then one of the women opened a satchel, pulled out a big revolver, dumped out some cartridges and began cleaning and oiling the weapon. "Yes," said the other man, "it is dangerous. Mighty dangerous."

Strength of Wood

Wood is one of the strongest substances in the world, but its strength lies in one direction only. A thin strip of wood cut with the grain will withstand about three times as heavy a pull as steel wire of equal weight.

Famous Organization

The Vestal Virgins were a group of well-born Roman maidens appointed to watch the sacred flame of the goddess Vesta and see that it never went out. One of them, Tuccia, was falsely accused of a want of chastity, but the goddess Vesta permitted her to carry water in a sieve as a sign of her innocence. Lerosus' picture depicts that episode.

FOUR CHILDREN BURNED TO DEATH

Coatesville, Pa., Feb. 10.—(U.P.)—Four children were burned to death when fire caused by an exploding oil lamp, destroyed the home of Benjamin Etters, a farmer, at Goosetown, three miles south of here today.

Two children, William, 11, and Elwood, 4, were saved by Mrs. Etters when she climbed out on a porch roof and jumped to the ground with them in her arms.

The others, Frances, 8, Benjamin Jr., 5, George, 3, and Theodore, 2, were burned to death in their cribs, the flames preventing all efforts of their father and neighbors to rescue them.

"Wild Women" and Gambling For His Downfall.

Chicago, Feb. 10.—(UP).—Blaming an insatiable desire for night life for his predicament, Keith Donovan, paying teller of the Northern Trust Co., today sought the aid of his father, a wealthy Canadian hardware dealer in making restitution of $8,000 he embezzled.

Donovan, according to police, readily admitted the theft of the bank money and blamed gambling resorts and "wild women."

One of the "wild women," Miss Hazel Hall, an employee of the bank of Montreal here, admitted to police that she had accompanied Donovan on several cabaret parties. She denied having received gifts.

In his confession, the erstwhile paying teller said his father owns a large hardware store in Gananoque, Canada. He left there some time ago because of his father's desire to have him learn the business.

His embezzling activities, he said, extended over a period of three months and involved funds of infrequent visitors to the bank.

C. & O. ENGINEERS GREETED BY CROWD

The Engineers of The Chesapeake & Ohio Railway Co., when they came to the city Wednesday to submit to the Board of County Commissioners the plans and specifications for the sixteen road crossings in the county and get an expression of the board as to their wishes in the matter of under road or over road crossings, were greeted by a "full-house" of citizens who had evidently been notified by some member of the board to be present, as Burr Rader said, to see that "the Railway Company did not put anything over on the board."

The Engineers said it was not a question of putting anything over on anybody and that the Board was not expected to decide the case at once but would be given ample time to decide the case to their own satisfaction.

The Engineers have nothing to do with the right-of-way and assured The Herald that the road would be built irrespective of the wishes of landowners and others, throughout the territory selected for their right-of-way.

Use for White Stockings
An eastern hosiery firm received an order from a North Carolina woman with the following note: "The reason I get white stockings is on account of fleas, and we don't know where so many fleas come from. I can't see them on black stockings and they are gone before I can see them, so that's why I get white stockings, so I can catch fleas on them."

LOVING TRIBUTES PAID TO MEMORY OF PRIEST

Touching resolutions on the death of Rt. Rev. Mgr. James Martin Kirwin continue to bear testimony to the great esteem in which he was held.

Two such resolutions were released yesterday by the board of city commissioners and Galveston Council No. 787, Knights of Columbus.

The Knights of Columbus resolution follows:
"Rt. Rev. Mgr. James Martin Kirwin, son of Patrick and Mary Ryan Kirwin, was born in Circleville, Ohio July 1, 1872.

"He was educated in St. Mary's college, Kentucky; Mount St. Mary's seminary, Cincinnati, Ohio, and Catholic University of America.

"He received holy orders June 19, 1895.

"He was appointed rector of St. Mary's cathedral in August, 1896, and here lived until, on January 24, 1926, wearied by his labors, he passed into that long sleep from which he will awaken nevermore.

"Priest and patriot and philanthropist, teacher and friend and counsellor, saint and scholar and soldier and foremost citizen and, promoter and leader and laborer in all that tended to the greater honor and glory of God and the advancement of mankind—he demonstrated a greater and more varied genius than any other man of his time.

"None to Fill."

"There is none left to fill his place. "We shall not look upon his like again.

"His great physical strength enabled him to endure long sustained labor and fatigue.

"He worked incessantly in epidemics and storms and in stress of wars. He never failed to heed a call for help. He gave everything he was to service.

"He lived for God, for country and for fellowman, without ever a thought of himself, his health, comfort or advancement.

"He mingled with knightly courage a sweet gentleness, as of a mother.

"He was a leader in thought and action.

"The circle of his splendid influence was far extended even beyond the borders of this state.

"It is for us, who knew him best, to love him most.

Inscribed on Minutes.

The board of county commissioners in session yesterday morning had inscribed on the minutes of the board the following:

"On Sunday, January 24 1926, death took from us Rt. Rev. Monsignor J. M. Kirwin, vicar general of the Galveston diocese, who for more than thirty years in our midst rendered his illustrious services to his church, his state and his fellowmen.

"Thoroughly understanding the great principles upon which our government is founded and believing in them with an unshaken faith and loving them with an unalloyed patriotism, he always with unstinted courage upheld them in both word and deed and sought by his acts and teachings to keep them pure and untarnished in the minds and hearts of the people. Knowing that the great bed rock of all liberties secured to the people of this country is the liberty of religious belief, he ever extended to those of other faiths that respect and consideration which he rightfully demanded that others should give to the followers of his church. A true and mighty priest of the church he served and an ardent patriot of the nation he also served, he clearly saw and by his life work taught that by serving each in its separate sphere are both best served.

"His activities in doing good for country and state and city and mankind were manifold and far too great to attempt to catalogue.

"He served with distinction and courage as the chaplain of a regiment in the Spanish-American war. And when his duties to his church at home prevented his going with the armies to the great war, he worked with tireless zeal to promote and carry on to success the various Liberty loan drives and other measures of our government among the people of this community.

Leader in 1900.

"And when in 1900 this city was swept by dire calamity, he was an outstanding leader and citizen, tireless and able. In his daily walks of life he went about teaching his flock earnestly and ably in their duties both to their church and to their state, guiding the young men in the seminary at La Porte, over which he presided, in the arduous path they had chosen, encouraging, advising and counseling those who sought his help, regardless of race or creed and by his words and acts setting an example of a citizen and a man of the very highest type.

"Ever intolerant of evil, he always fought it courageously and ably. But he loved mankind and knew the weaknesses of men and while he ever condemned without equivocation or compromise the vile deed they did, he was always ready to aid to the right path an evil doer, no matter what his race, creed or station in life might be. A true and faithful priest a loyal, brave and patriotic citizen, a deep lover of his fellowmen, he has left enshrined in the minds and hearts of our people with whom he lived and worked that great heritage, the inspiration for good which the life work of such as he implants in the hearts of humanity.

"Therefore, be it resolved, That this be inscribed upon the minutes as a testimonial of appreciation of this board of the character and life of this great and good citizen and as an expression of our sorrow and sense of our loss and that of the city of Galveston in the death of Monsignor Kirwin."

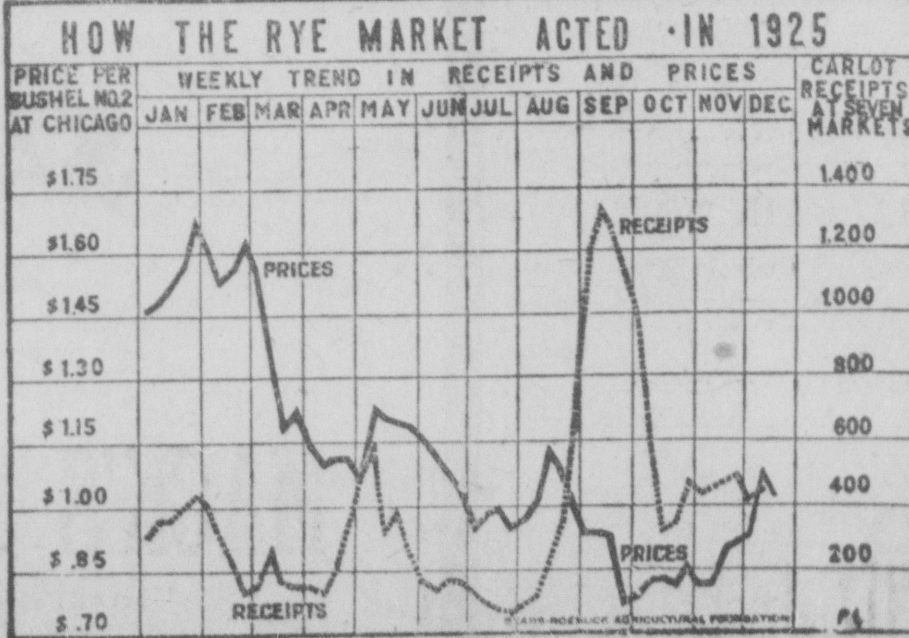

The resolution was drafted by a committee including Mayor Jack T. Pearce and City Attorney Bryan Williams. —Galveston News.

RYE PRICES LOW FOR THE YEAR YIELD DROPS 11,400,000 BUSHEL

The 1925 American rye crop, according to an analysis of conditions by the Sears-Roebuck Agricultural Foundation, produced a low yield. With a total of 52,000,000 bushels in 1925 as compared to 63,400,000 bushels for 1924, and a five-year average of 70,000,000 bushels, prices started off at the beginning of the year at strong levels and then declined, dropping from $1.68 for No. 2 rye early in January, to the low mark of 79 cents in the fourth week in September. There has been a steady decrease in the price level since last January.

The domestic requirements of rye in the United States are variable. Probably one-half of this year's yield could be spared for export purposes. There was a carry-over of more than seven million bushels in the visible supply on July 1st when the harvest of the new crop began. Also, the European crop was reported to be much larger in 1925 than in 1924, Russia claiming to have an extensive surplus for export.

During the last part of the 1925 season, rye declined until it was selling as a feed grain on about the same price level as corn. The recent price rally has developed because of the strength in other grains, particularly wheat, and the development of a small amount of export business.

BASKETBALL GAME COPPED BY HOME TEAM

Splendid Contest, But Result Never In Doubt—Columbus Kinnears Next.

Taking the lead in the first minute of play the C. A. C. boys won over the Rochester Clothiers' at the gym Thursday night. It was one of those games that kept you keyed up every minute yet at no time during the game was there any question of the outcome. The club boys took the lead and kept it and at no time during the contest did the visitors become real dangerous. Just close enough to keep the home boys fighting. It was fast and furious and perhaps slightly rough in spots but this is to be expected in such a game.

Next comes the Columbus Kinnears. The game all the fans have been waiting for. The Kinnears, a team composed of former college stars such as Johnny Miner, Mel Shaw, Bobby Shea, Chick Harley, Pete Stinchcomb and Deacon Lynch is a fast aggregation with a great reputation having lost but one game since the team's organization. This bunch will show at the C. A. C. gym Saturday night February 20. This is an attraction supreme and fans should come early to be sure of a good seat.

IN MEMORY OF HARRISON.

It was in the days that Cincinnati was known as Fort Washington that a slender youth reported to the military authorities of the post, bearing an Ensign's commission from General Washington. That youth was William Henry Harrison, destined to become the ninth president of the United States.

The massacre of St. Clair's army had taken place and the country was filled with apprehension and dismay, but resolved to remedy that deplorable disaster by adequate military reprisal.

Ensign Harrison was with Mad Anthony Wayne in the victorious campaign which followed the defeat of St. Clair, distinguishing himself as an aid to that true chevalier of the pioneer day.

It is fitting that Cincinnati is to celebrate the anniversary of one so intimately identified with the early development of the community and the great territory from which the original tribal possessors finally were driven by the irresistible onrush of the white conqueror. The city honors itself in honoring the memory of General Harrison.

William Henry Harrison must remain for long a commanding figure in historical estimation. As soldier, legislator, administrator, governor, citizen, he measured up to best national traditions and ideals of public service.

As Indian Commissioner Governor Harrison secured title to more than 70,000,000 acres of land, now the terrain of a surpassing progress that scarcely would have been dreamed of in the day when the warwhoop resounded thru the Ohio and Wabash Valleys and the Red Man lorded the northwestern frontiers.

It was in 1811 that General Harrison finally broke the Indian power in the middle west and immediate northwest, when he became "Old Tippecanoe," by his victory over one among the ablest Indian chieftains known to American history.

Again, at the battle near the river Thomas, Harrison wrought confusion and defeat to the British and their Indian allies by winning a decisive conflict. He became a national hero. He was elected to congress, became a United States senator, an ambassador and, finally, was called by the people to preside over the country as its chief magistrate. Fate granted him an incumbency as president that was tragically brief—one month. But the muse of history had crowned him with immortal bays.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

PUBLIC SALE GOOD PRICES ARE REALIZED

Albert E. Hudnell, who has tenanted the Littleton farm in Walnut township for the past few years, held a public sale of his farm chattels, including all household effects Thursday.

The attendance was possibly the biggest of any sale held in this community for years; the crowd being conservatively estimated at 1500 people. The premises were parked with automobiles and a line on either side of the highway for at least one-half mile.

Prices were much better than the average sale of the season; some of the maximum prices being as follows: Horses $176; milk cows $201; second highest priced cow $176; oats 41 cents per bushel; farming implements and machinery all selling at fair prices and most household goods, canned fruit, etc., selling at excellent figures sale totaling nearly $4850.

C. G. Chalfin auctioneer and J. D. Hummel and A. J. Dunkel clerked.

The ladies of the Evangelical church served lunch, but the crowd was so large that not nearly all could be fed.

Mr. Hudnell will vacate the farm in a few days at which time Arthur Stevens, who has been a tenant on the J. M. Morris farm will succeed Mr. Hudnell on the Littleton farm.

The Way You View It

It's a good deal in the way you look at it. The other day a woman died leaving an estate valued at nearly four millions and considered herself poor. At the same time an editor died and left an estate valued at $11,000. He probably considered himself rich. —Charleston Daily Mail.

Home, Sweet Home

A Thatcham (Berks) farmer, who purchased a cow at a cattle sale, found that the animal had wandered back to its old home 12 miles away, arriving at milking time.—London Mail.
